

Taking Lake George by String

by Jeff Nazzaro

Members of Wilmington's Strings Attached music program steamed into Lake George, N.Y. as part of director Ward Dilmore's British-American Project and walked away with the highest rating possible from a panel of judges.

The two-day Lake George trip, on which 60 young Stings Attached musicians embarked May 31, marked the first phase of the British-American project, a year-long affair conceptualized and organized by Dilmore for his students to study the music, history, culture, geography and lifestyle of the British people.

"Our trip to Lake George as part one of the project was a tremendous success," Dilmore said.

The highlight of day one of the trip came when the 60 students boarded the steamer Defiance for a cruise around the lake buoyed by a lecture from the ship's captain on the historical and strategic significance of Lake George, which played an integral role in the pre-Revolution struggle for continental control between the French and the British.

Before they returned home, Strings Attached members also visited Fort William Henry, where they were treated to a guided tour by a fort staff member decked out in traditional British military garb from the era of the French and Indian War.

"The history and significance of the fort, as well as a demonstration of cannon and musket firing, brought a very successful trip to a close," Dilmore said.

But in between came the real pyrotechnics - from the stringed instruments of the Wilmington musicians themselves.

And Dilmore, who attributes all the good of his 200-member Strings Attached program to the kids, couldn't have been happier.

Dilmore said he never places his students in competition against other musicians, but does subject them to a grueling analysis by a panel of judges who rate their competence in several areas of performance.

"This year, they struck gold," he beamed proudly.

The Strings Attached contingent earned the highest rating from the judges and, at one point, according to Dilmore, were so effective in their performance, they moved one of the judges to tears during their rendition of their traditional theme, "The Water is Wide."

The judges weren't the only ones moved. Parents who attended heard years of practice blossom into, quite literally, beautiful music.

And as a result of the trip, some of those parents have begun organizing the Strings Attached Parental Support group, or SAPS, to aid Dilmore in fund raising, particularly for the remainder of the project, which will feature a visit from British students to Wilmington in the fall followed by a Wilmington student journey to England next spring.

One parent organizing the support group is Karen Swartwout, whose daughter Julie, a violinist, just completed the sixth grade. Swartwout offered high praise for Dilmore and the Strings Attached program, noting the overall improvement in play as "just incredible."

"He really has such a belief in them," she said of Dilmore. "They want to do well and he evokes that from them."

"He just inspired them to want to do well and boy, were they impressive."

In addition to students and chaperones, Dilmore also brought WCTV cinematographer Jim Narduzzo to Lake George to document the trip on video. The next two phases will also be video taped and upon completion of the project the students will have a complete video documentary of this rewarding experience.

Restriction stands

Board accepts Stonehedge Deed

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen voted 3-1 Monday to accept a restrictive deed for a roughly 23-and-a-half acre parcel of land donated to the town as conservation land by developer Mark Lopez as a result of a 1993 Annual Town Meeting vote.

That vote authorized the rezoning of a similarly sized parcel from R-60 to R-20 that later became the Stonehedge Estates residential subdivision. Part of the sell behind the town meeting article was the conservation gift, which, though containing some wet-lands and some uplands, was meant to serve as a buffer against the new development.

But a funny thing happened on the way to the Registry of Deeds: the deed was never approved by the board of selectmen. It finally was Monday, but not before a lengthy debate over the intent of the 1993 vote and, more importantly, whether or not selectmen would approve a deed carrying a restriction.

The intent of town meeting was actually the clearest aspect of Monday's debate. Residents, including Al Cuoco of Birch Road, left no doubt as to how they perceived the article when they voted to approve it: no residential dwellings should be built on the land donated to the conservation commission. The restriction on the approved deed reads exactly that.

But some town officials, including Town Manager Michael Cairra and Town Counsel Alan Altman, believe that accepting deeds with restrictions is both unnecessary and, in Cairra's words, "a very dangerous precedent."

Altman said in the 30 years he has served as town counsel he has never seen a deed representing a gift of land to the town gain approval carrying a restriction.

When Lopez first submitted the deed to town hall for approval in 1993, it carried with it a reverter clause stating that if the land was used for anything other than conservation purposes, the deed would revert back to him. Following a meeting with town officials two weeks ago, Lopez agreed to strike the reverter clause, but replaced it with the "no residential dwelling" restriction. That deed was submitted to Town Hall on Friday.

Last Tuesday, the planning board held up a public hearing with Lopez on the five-home Stonehedge II offshoot of the 30-house original development pending a deed acceptance vote Monday by selectmen.

Following a unanimous planning board vote to recommend disapproval of the restrictive deed, Chairman Dick Longo authored two letters to the board of selectmen, one as chairman and a second as a private citizen.

In the letter as planning board chair, Longo points out that no reverter clause was mentioned to that board prior to its recommending favorably on the article to town meeting.

Longo further states in that letter "There are significant legal obstacles already in place through the Massachusetts General Laws that prohibit any use of Conservation land for anything other than conservation purposes, unless approved by the Conservation Commission, the Board of Selectmen, 2/3 of Town Meeting and approval by the [State] Legislature."

But in light of this, Cuoco, for one, said the restriction offered "all the more protection."

The board of selectmen, with Chairman Diane Allan sitting out to avert any potential conflict of interest - she said her home is for sale and she may be looking for one near the development in question - came back with a 3-1 vote in favor of the deed and the restriction, with Selectman Bob Cain voting in the negative.

Selectman Michael McCoy acted as chairman and, with Selectmen Jim Rooney and Dan Wandell convinced, became essentially the swing vote - his vote unlocked what at one point appeared to be a tie and thus loss for the deed. McCoy said he wanted only to go along with the intention of the town meeting vote.

The article voted on, which was passed 154-24, while not specifying a deed restriction, carried with it the understanding that the donated land would not be built on.

"It was supposed to be a gift to conservation for open space, period," McCoy stated.

In the end, the board decided that a restriction, while perhaps setting precedence, etched in stone that those conservation acres will remain only that.

Plans for expanded Rt 38

Main Street to be 4 lanes wide

by Jeff Nazzaro

Plans to widen Route 38 to four lanes from Clark Street to the Route 129 intersection at Rocco's Restaurant are currently at 25 percent and could go out to bid as early as next year, according to Michael Matt of the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority.

Matt and professional engineer John K. Hendrickson, of Fay, Spofford & Thorndike - the firm designing the project for the town - were before the board of selectmen Monday night with an update and diagram of the plans.

Matt said he and the redevelopment authority are hoping that bids go out and construction begins in fiscal year 1996, but have set FY-97 as a more practical goal.

Hendrickson outlined the estimated $1.2 million state-funded project, which will include new pavement, curbing and signage along Main Street from just north of Middlesex Avenue to just past the 129 intersection, as well as two new light signals. The town is picking up the tab for the design phase. Also included in the project will be the installation of sanitary sewer lines, not included in the $1.2 million estimate.

The project, when completed, would alter significantly what is perhaps the most widely traveled stretch of road in town.

The four-lane stretch will go to the Clark Street intersection, with an approximate 300-400-foot transition area toward Middlesex Avenue. The existing merge area north of the 129 intersection will remain as is.

The new traffic light sets are planned for the intersection of Main and Clark streets and for a new, single intersection that will serve as lone public entrance for both the Wilmington Plaza and the old Wilmington Ford site (once the property is developed).

The dual entrance will line up roughly between the T.J. Maxx and CVS stores of the plaza, according to Hendrickson. The current northerly entrance, closest to the 129 intersection, will be closed off and the southerly entrance will be barricaded and used only for commercial deliveries, according to plans.

The Clark Street intersection light signal will include a crosswalk and sidewalk access will be provided. It was stated at the meeting that there is now difficulty crossing that section of Main Street.

The Clark Street stretch will be flattened slightly to improve sight lines. According to Hendrickson, the grade of that portion of Main Street will be lessened by around one-and-a-half percent. Slight waves will actually be added to the extremely flat plaza stretch to improve drainage.

According to plans, six-foot concrete sidewalks will line the entire stretch of the project, from Middlesex Avenue to just past the 129 intersection. The walks will be fitted with granite curbs and will be completely wheelchair accessible, Hendrickson said.

In addition, while the entire project will be landscaped, the plaza stretch will gain planted trees on a two-for-one basis, as the existing red maples will be removed during construction. Hendrickson said the plantings will give the area along the plaza and the old Wilmington Ford site the "appearance of a tree-lined corridor."

The sewer line installation seemed Monday to be the only point on which the town and state differed. The sewer construction will not take

Wilmington summer school

The Wilmington Public School system is again offering a summer school program for both middle school and high school students. The program allows students who have had difficulty during the year to gain credit toward promotion or graduation as well as the opportunity for educational enrichment. English, mathematics, science and social studies courses are available subject to enrollment.

The program will run in two morning sessions from July 10 to August 9, 1995 at Wilmington High School. Registration forms are available at Wilmington High School. Call 694-6060 for more information.

Extended day care program

The Wilmington Public Schools will be offering an Extended Day Care Program for Kindergarten children enrolled for September 1995. This day care facility will be housed at the Boutwell School. It will provide morning day care for P.M. Kindergarten children and afternoon day care for A.M. Kindergarten children. In the event that the number of interested parents exceeds the ability of the Wilmington Public School to provide such services a lottery system would be established to select those children for whom these services could be provided.

Further information regarding this program as well as the tuition costs and registration will be included with each child's fall assignments. It is intended that this packet will be mailed to parents of registered Kindergarten children within the month of June.

All Around Travel Update

By Peggy Lee - President/Owner

A WORD ABOUT ATT

Our move from 203 Jefferson Road about a year ago enabled us to concentrate on the PEOPLE aspect of travel. Corporate travel is hectic, fast paced, and impersonal! I, personally, find that I am happiest when I have the time to spend WITH people and helping them find "just the right trip" for them. This takes a great deal of time. Getting to know each client, their likes and dislikes, activities, and budgets and then FITTING the right trip around them is quite an art.

Keeping an outline of these preferences enables us to save time with future bookings and from time to time give them a call if a certain destination is having a "special" discount period.

The travel business is one you just "have to love," as the main benefit is received when the client returns from vacation and just have to tell you what a wonderful time they had. Our new location gives us the opportunity for more flexible hours, a lovely relaxed atmosphere and a homey touch which we feel helps you feel "special."

Honeymoons, family vacations, cruises, tours to Europe and beyond and our "special touch" for group travelers are just a few of the ways we can help YOU. For busy WORKING PEOPLE we can handle everything by phone and by mail or FAX to make it easier for you. We also will extend our hours in the evening or on a Saturday on request. We appreciate how little time you really have.

We NEVER CHARGE for our services, even with all the cutbacks in the travel industry, and getting you the BEST FARE at the time of your booking is our purpose.

If we do not have the answers to some of your questions, our travel resources and information highway will help get them for us. We're simple, basic and honest and we hope you will enjoy making your travel arrangements with us. Please give us a call at 508-658-2313 or 800-974-0106. We look forward to "getting to know you."

HINT: For February and school vacations book early for best fares.

MORE ON THE "MARRIAGE TAX"

The so-called "marriage tax," the quirk in the tax law that causes married people to pay more tax, has become infamous. Here's why: A single taxpayer stays in the 15 percent tax bracket with an income up to $23,350. Two singles, possibly living together, can have as much as $46,700 in income at that tax rate, yet a married couple filing jointly or separately moves up to the 28 percent bracket at $39,000. The top, 39.6 bracket, comes in at $256,500 for everyone, married or single; two singles could make $250,000 each - a half million together! - and pay less tax.

A married couple with two children, earning $10,000 each, could get a $359 refund through the earned income credit. Single and claiming one child each, they would get refunds of $2,038 each, or $4,076 together.

Seniors on Social Security get hit, too. A married couple pays tax on 50 percent of benefits at $32,000, on 85 percent at $44,000. Two singles could get benefits of $50,000 or $68,000 before paying those taxes.

Restarting the Revolution

June 24th & 25th citizens of the area will be able to find out who fired those shots, and see them shoot some more. The Wilmington Minutemen will be holding their annual Liberty Pole Capping and encampment at Liberty Pole Park (known the other 51 weekends of the year as Rotary Park) across from the Wilmington Police Station. Militia groups from all over New England will be coming in to live as the soldiers of our revolution did over 200 years ago.

The encampment will be open to the public, who are encouraged to visit, talk, ask questions and take pictures. Most of the militia people are hams, they just love to tell everything they know about their hobby. Saturday the encampment will be open from 9 - 5 and Sunday from 9 - 1. At 2 p.m. on Sunday all the companies will form a parade on the town common and march back to Liberty Pole Park, there to erect the Liberty Pole in defiance of King George III. Rumor has it (and it hasn't failed yet) that the Regulars of His Majesty's Army will have a patrol in the area, and a skirmish may ensue, promptly at 2:30 p.m.

Saturday evening at 8 there will be a concert by Jim Douglas, who will be performing music and telling tales of the times of the American Revolution. The concert is sponsored by Mark Lopez, Universe Construction. The concert, at Liberty Pole Park, is free and open to the public.

Wilmington's Militia group NOT your typical terrorist type

Reports of gun fire on Saturday morning in North Wilmington struck fear into some neighbors. However, the noise heard was that of the Wilmington Minutemen and the Massachusetts Council of Minit & Militia conducting a musket and canion safety course for members of the area Colonial re-enactor groups.

If you have ever been to any parade in the past 200 years in any town in New England or on the eastern seaboard for that matter you have seen them marching down the street in short pants, waistcoats and tri-cornered hats. They are your local militia. THEY CARRY GUNS. Yes, the muskets that they march with are real. They can and do fire them at targets on properly constructed and legal ranges. Two hundred years ago those muskets were the assault weapon of choice for every military unit.

The word "militia" has taken on a "bad" meaning in recent weeks since the bombing of the Federal building in Oklahoma City. The groups claiming that name now are not representative of the Colonial re-enactors, though they use the same name. They have borrowed the name from Colonial days, hoping perhaps to capitalize on the good names of Paul Revere, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington and the other revolutionaries of 200 years ago.

A trip to nowhere, home from the war

Sandwich navigation

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Fifty odd years ago World War Two was over.

This is the story of the last war cruise of the SS Benjamin Goodhue, a Liberty ship commanded by this writer. The Goodhue was at sea, loaded with some troops, and confusingly, with a number of pieces of field artillery, bound for the English Channel, on the day that Germany surrendered.

It was the first time in a period of over a year and a half in which the Goodhue did not have a full load of troops. Instead there was a lot of military stores on board.

The Goodhue left New York as part of a 65 ship convoy, three days before the German surrender. The weather was foggy. The convoy steamed through that fog, day after day. Under those circumstances the captain does not leave the bridge.

The head of the steward's department brings up the breakfast, the lunch and the supper for the captain. In between times he brought up coffee and sandwiches.

The ship's steward is a person who rarely gets on the bridge of a ship. This particular steward, after he had served coffee and sandwiches, always went over to look at the ship's compass, by which the helmsman was steering the ship.

This writer had a joking name for that look at the compass. It was "Sandwich Navigation."

A week or so after leaving New York, when the convoy was several hundred miles easterly of Newfoundland a message was received by the Goodhue from Washington D.C. "Return to the port from which you sailed."

The Goodhue pulled out of the convoy and headed for the port of New York.

Convoys were still at sea, as were German submarines. Some submarines had surfaced and signaled a surrender. They were given orders to proceed to the nearest naval base, American or British, depending on their position.

One sub, given orders to go to a Newfoundland base, was in such a position that there was a chance of an encounter with the Goodhue, within a few hours. The captain changed the course of the Goodhue, so that it would be going south and thus avoid any chance meeting with that sub. Such a meeting could spell disaster. The captain of the Goodhue wasn't willing to take that chance.

That was big news to the steward, on his next trip to the bridge. Why was the Goodhue going south??

Then, out of the fog came a U.S. Navy destroyer. It ordered the Goodhue to follow. That destroyer was going to the northeast. The destroyer was exchanging messages with Washington concerning the Goodhue's destination.

Of course the steward happened to come up with more coffee for the captain. Where was the captain going now?

After a couple of hours the destroyer blinked an order to the Goodhue to join a convoy which was southerly of Nova Scotia. That meant the ship had to go northeast for a couple of hours, and, of course it was noted the next time the "sandwich navigator" brought coffee to the captain.

In a little less than two weeks the captain had been steering the Goodhue east-northeast for several days, then north east for about five, then southwest. Then it went south, followed again by going to the northeast, and then northwest. The final course was to the southwest, toward Cape Cod.

Each of these changes had been noted by the steward. Where was the captain going?

Anyway, the Goodhue finally arrived in Cape Cod Bay, at the entrance to the Cape Cod Canal.

The Goodhue went through the canal, and then down Long Island Sound under the direction of the pilot. The captain thus had an opportunity to take a shave, and a nap.

It was on Palm Sunday that the Goodhue passed through Hell Gate and into the entrance to the East River and New York Harbor.

Thousands of people were out, in their best Sunday clothes, after having attended services in church.

It was the first time since the beginning of the war in which a troop ship navigated, during daylight hours, in New York harbor. Military movements during the war had been a deep, deep secret.

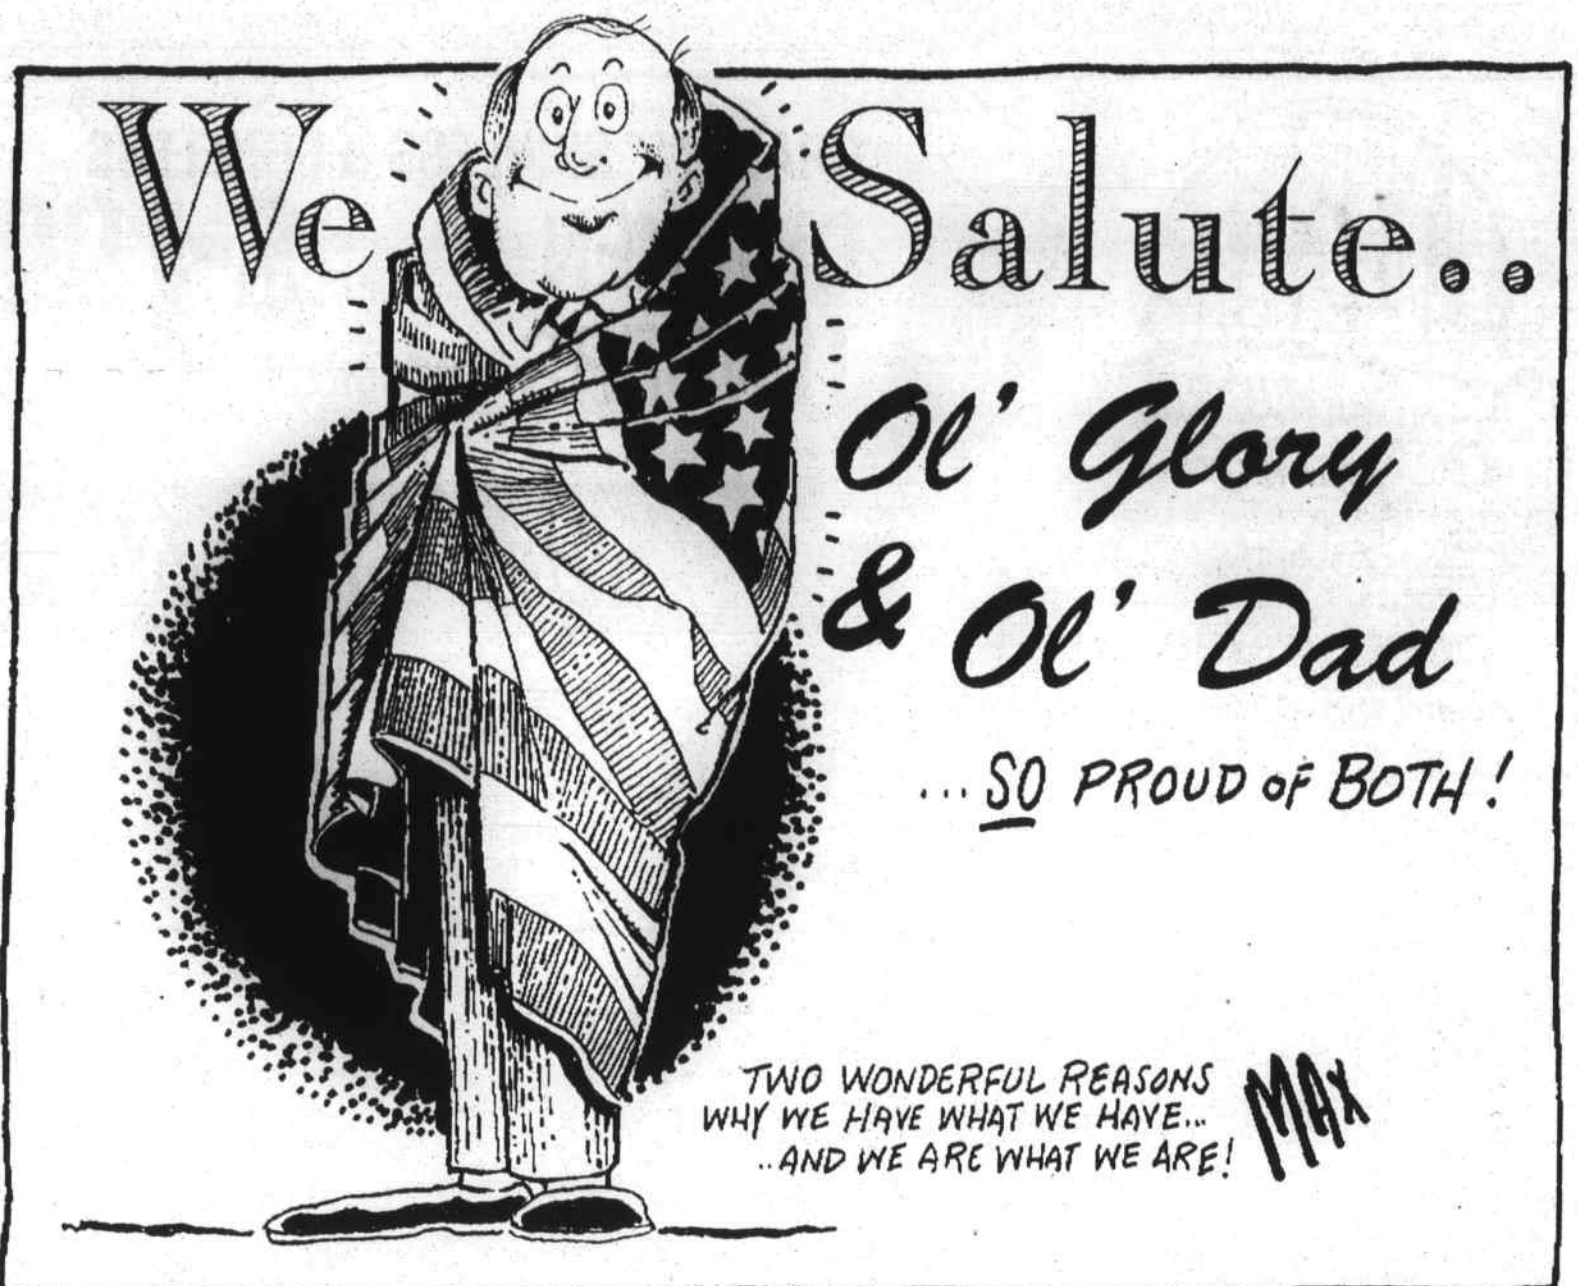

Here was a ship, coming into New York Harbor, with soldiers on deck!

The first troops home from the war!!

Everyone cheered and cheered for those first soldiers, home from the war!

And the troops on the Goodhue sat on top of the guns and other things on deck and cheered back!

They had been on a voyage to nowhere, but it was nice to return.

A squad of Wilmington Minutemen were practicing marching on the common on Saturday afternoon. Sgt. Jerome Connors (left) is awe struck as all the men were almost in step. (photo by Erik Neilson)

Letters to the editor

Work for what?

Dear Larz:
I was wondering how the awards and scholarships are given out each year when the number one student in the class of 1995 was just about ignored. The class Valedictorian should mean something other than a thank you and a plaque. This should be a celebration for the parents for the hours of hard work instead wondering what their daughter did wrong.
This is one of the examples but there were many National Honor students who sat there all night with just a certificate as their reward. The school made a promise to these students that if they studied hard, worked to be the best, then their hard work would be rewarded.

I don't want this letter in any way to take away from the students who did receive scholarships and awards but to get the school to rethink its promise and not forget the very best.

Yours truly,
Jim Murray

Thanks

Dear Larz:
I would like to thank the many parents who contributed donations and their time to the Tewksbury Memorial High School senior prom breakfast. For the past several years, parents have prepared breakfast for students following the senior prom. This year the event was attended and enjoyed by many students.

Additionally, I would like to extend a special thank you to Principal William DeGregorio for his support.

Sincerely,
Paula B. Coppola,

WHS secretary Eleanor Day was pictured at her retirement party with Principal Bernard McMahon and party organizers Georgia Dadoly and Mrs. Kenneth Palm. Mrs. Day was serving as high school librarian and in 1950 when the position as secretary became vacant, she was named to fill it. She held that post for 19 years.

You've made the decision to add on to your home, but there are still so many questions. Should you add one room... maybe two... a new dormer... a room off the back... a second floor... an inlaw apartment? You have an idea of what you'd like, but you can't quite picture the finished product. You may even have already chosen a builder but, after looking through all his plans, you haven't seen anything that quite matches what you had in mind. Maybe it's time to call a residential designer.

Richard Medeiros, owner of RJM Designs, has been a Wilmington resident for 27 years. Even if you don't know him, you've probably seen some of his design work. Richard's projects include Wilmington's Buzzell Senior Center, the addition to the 4th of July Building, and the WCTV studios.

That's nice, but you weren't planning on anything quite so large. No problem. Richard will tackle any project... from a 12x12 addition, to a complete new home. And, even though designing is his first love, he is also a licensed builder.

RJM Designs is located at 19 Lloyd Road, in Wilmington. Give him a call at 658-6817, and let him make your dream house a reality.

WILMINGTON VACUUM CLEANERS

35 Lowell St., Rt. 129, Wilmington, MA
 (508) 694-9555

Wilmington Vacuum Cleaners - conveniently located at Colonial Park Mall

"If I sell something, I fix it!" says Jim MacDonald, owner of Wilmington Vacuum Cleaners. What's that... you didn't buy your vacuum from him? Bring it in anyway. Jim works on all makes and models, with an average turnaround time of 2-4 days for parts or repairs.

Looking for a new machine? Wilmington Vacuum Cleaners sells Royal, Eureka, Oreck, Hoover, Panasonic, and Sanitaire models, as well as their parts and supplies. Prices range from $29 for a carpet sweeper, to about $500 for the top of their Royal line. Jim says that upright models are the most popular right now, but he also has several canister styles to choose from. The shop will take trade-ins on certain models, and also sells used machines.

Suffering from springtime allergies? Why not try one of the new models with electrostatically charged bags and filters. These models are designed to remove pollen, dust, and even dust mites from the vacuum exhaust. The Royal model claims to remove particles as small as one micron in size!

Wilmington Vacuum Cleaners is located at 35 Lowell St., in the Colonial Park Mall. They're open Monday thru Friday: 8:30 - 5:30; and Saturday: 8:30 - 4. Gift certificates are available and they offer free layaway.

Youth Alliance is on the move

The Board of Directors of the Alliance for Wilmington Youth has announced exciting progress toward opening a youth center in Wilmington. Jim Rooney, Chairman of the Alliance, says major renovations are underway at Villanova Hall and the group hopes to open the center sometime this summer.

The first major hurdle was completed in May with the installation of a new drainage system. "With this done, the Alliance can now install new tiles and rugs in the Hall," said Joe Langone, a member of the Alliance Board. Langone said the next steps will be to complete the interior walls, install new electrical wiring to bring the Hall up to code and make the restroom handicapped accessible.

"We are overwhelmed by the support and encouragement the Alliance has received from the community," said Rooney. Many local businesses and individuals have donated time, money and materials to project. More than 15 businesses have donated along with many individuals and families. Local groups like Access is Mandatory (AIM) and the Handicapped Affairs Commission have helped with the design.

"This would never have happened without Father Robert Brown," said Rooney. Father Brown is the pastor of St. Thomas of Villanova and an ardent supporter of the project since its inception. In addition to making Villanova Hall available for the Youth Center, Father Brown has been a liaison to the Archdiocese on the renovations. He has pledged his continuing support to make this a nondenominational facility, open to all youth in Wilmington.

The goal of the Alliance is to open the Youth Center on Friday and Saturday evening throughout the school year. The center will be staffed by volunteer chaperones. In addition to the snack bar, TV room, game room and juke box, the center will have a classroom space and plenty of room for dances.

The Alliance is accepting donations, including usable furniture and equipment. For more information call Jim Rooney at 694-9351 or Joe Langone at 658-7188 or write the Alliance for Wilmington Youth, c/o North-eastern Development Corp., 20 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Wilmington Memorial Library notes

Job listings

Although the Job Resource Center sponsored by the Small Cities program is no longer active at the library; there is still available a word processor for help in writing resumes and honing computer skills. Job listings received by the library are now kept in the Business Reference Section and are available to all who are interested.

Look for the prominent yellow file boxes marked "Job Openings," or ask the librarian for help in locating them.

Introduction to computers and computing.

June 13; 11 a.m.

In the Conference Room Arnold Peterson, local resident and member of the Boston Computer Society, will give an introductory talk on Personal Computers for beginners and others. Anyone who is a beginner or who is experiencing computer anxiety and needs to know what computers are all about is invited to this free library progress. It promises to be a practical, stress free and easy introduction to the new technology.

Book discussion group

Thursday evening, June 8 at seven o'clock the "Bookends" will meet in the library's Conference Room to discuss this month's choice, Possession by A.S. Byatt. Lisa Crispin will be leader for the evening. All who might be interested in joining the group are encouraged to attend. The book chosen for the July 13 meeting is Charmes for the Easy Life by Kaye Gibbons. Discussion leader for July will be Mary Deislinger, new library trustee.

Summer reading program

Children's Services Librarian Eileen Broderick and Assistant Children's Librarian Susan MacDonald are as busy as the proverbial bee preparing for this summer's reading program. "Reading is Natural." The Children's Department is buzzing with plans as butterfly shapes appear and real pine cones arrive in mysterious numbers from the woods of Maine.

Registration for this year's program will begin Monday, June 19, and continue throughout the summer. More details will be available as plans are finalized.

June is family reading month

In honor of public libraries and family literacy, Governor William Weld has proclaimed June as Massachusetts Public Library Reading Month, citing the importance of families reading together and of public libraries in encouraging year long reading habits in children. A copy of the proclamation is posted in the Children's Room. Eileen Broderick, Children's Services Librarian, suggests for family sharing a sampling of titles from the library's large collection of children's books:

EXCEEDING YOUR EXPECTATION

Real estate agents build a business over time, and a lot of our success depends on referrals we get from satisfied buyers or sellers. This is one reason we work hard to exceed your expectations of our service.

If you have done business with an agent who did a superb job selling your old house or finding you a new one, the best way to say thank you is to give his or her name and phone number to everyone you know who may be considering a move. Not only are you doing the agent a favor, you are also helping out your friends by steering them toward someone who is competent, knowledgeable and conscientious. Buying a house or condo can be great experience, or it can get a little scary if you don't have a strong professional guiding you through the process. In addition, we try extra hard to please people who are referred to us by friends or past customers. Good agents are in the business for the long term, and the best way to prosper in real estate is by giving a very high quality of service, and by doing it consistently.

For professional advice on buying or selling real estate, please drop by our office in the Starwood Building at 299 Main Street, or call us at 657-8444.

Class of 1995

Salutorian Julie A. Gosse was eloquent in her delivery as she told her classmates to look for the right path in life.

They also serve who sit and wait. Graduation is for the parents and families of the graduates who want to be sure that twelve years of hard work really paid off.

Wilmington Garden Club installs new executive board of directors

On a drab rainy evening, members of the Wilmington Garden Club managed to transform a plain dull function room into a splash of springtime. Friendship and common interests added lively conversation to the evening. Former President Mrs. Ruth Stark, began by showing her appreciation to the outgoing Board of Directors. Noting their hard work and dedication, she thanked them for their achievements on behalf of the Wilmington Garden Club. Introducing the chairpeople of the various committees, Mrs. Stark said that "many of you have approached your volunteer positions as if the were full time jobs. Thank you for your efforts."

Moving on, Mrs. Stark introduced the new executive board of directors. As she formally inducted them into their new positions, she presented each of them with a ribbon wrapped flower. Each gift based on color and flower symbolized a trait that would add to their new position and responsibility.

Holding a red rose wrapped in purple ribbon symbolizing leadership new Garden Club President Sandra Koning spoke briefly about the upcoming year. Plans for expanding her ideas for a youth program, the recent gift of passes to the Wilmington Memorial Library, as well as ongoing events such as civic beautification and the Festival of Trees are all in the works. Mrs. Koning noted that she and her board of directors are looking forward to another active and successful two years.

Congratulations are extended to new President Sandra Koning, Vice President Celia Cornish, Second Vice President Delores Brown, Recording Secretary Barbara Buck, Treasurer Dianne Buck and Corresponding Secretary Eleanor Cleary.

Stone's in the Garden

Spring fades as summer flowering shrubs abound

This year's spring blush has treated us to a long and colorful display that just keeps going and going. (like the Ever-ready Bunny). The pinky/purple rhododendrons (Roseum Elegans, English Roseum) and the white Chinoides and Catawbiense album are just now fading. The pink covered Beauty Bush (Kolkwitzia amabilis) and the red or pink Weigela are in spectacular bloom as are the delicate white Deutzia Gracilis. These three deciduous shrubs help bridge the spring to summer color gap in our gardens.

The late flowering dogwoods, Cornus kousa, are now in bloom and their white (or rarely pink) flowers will last well into July. The flowers of these 20 foot tall trees will be followed by red berries that will last through the fall and will also treat us to colorful foliage in the fall. One added benefit of this tree is their resistance to a fungus disorder (anthracnose) that has plagued the native, May flowering dogwood (Cornus florida). Kousa dogwoods have done fabulously well in my garden, with blossoms on one tree lasting into August last year. Other new disease resistant varieties include the Rutgers Hybrids which are results of crosses between C. florida and C. kousa.

Which shrubs will flower as summer starts and continue their bloom in summer's heat? A few reliable and colorful suggestions include Clethra (summersweet), Potentilla, Buddleia davidii (butterfly bush, sometimes called summer lilac), Hibiscus syriacus (Rose of Sharon) and of course Roses.

Clethra, Potentilla and Buddleia will tolerate hot, dry, even sandy conditions. Clethra grows to about six feet with pink or white, fragrant spires of flowers mid summer. It is tolerant of many conditions, from dry to damp, but like many adaptable plants it spreads rapidly when it finds a good home. Buddleia

A Father's 10 Percepts

The following bit of prose, borrowed from the bulletin of the First Baptist Church of Tewksbury (no author listed) seems rather appropriate for this week:

He makes himself responsible for his children's behavior.

He is never blinded by love to his child's faults - he knows he serves his child's interest best by recognizing and correcting weaknesses.

He makes his child feel secure.

He shares his child's activities.

He has his child's complete confidence.

He is always available to help solve youthful problems.

He doesn't demand filial devotion - he wins it.

He recognizes and accepts, as largely his, the responsibility for his child's mental and spiritual development.

He contributes to making the home his child's haven.

He strives to be the man his child thinks he is.

It takes years of dedication and work to become a member of the elite Eagle Scouts: Wilmington's Troop 56, sponsored by the Congregational Church, has had a rash of Eagles recently. The latest, but not last, are Scott and James Whitebone (l. to r.) shown here during their Eagle Court of Honor on May 13 receiving honors from Scout Master Chris Ferraro.

They received congratulatory letters from past President Ford, President Clinton, Governor Weld, past Governor Dukakis, Steven Spielberg and 2 astronauts. All but Clinton Eagle Scouts themselves. Also the received citations from Town Manager Michael Cairn and Rep. Jim Miceli who attend the Court of Honor. Miceli also present them with US Flags which had flown over the State House.

The first store in Wilmington – maybe

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Eight years ago this paper discussed the history of the Buck Brothers store in North Wilmington and Wilmington Center and told of the purchase of that store by the Elia Brothers. The stores were traced back, after a fashion, to the mid-1880s.

There was a store in that time which was purchased by Herbert, Sidney and George Buck. The tale did not wholly agree with the Buck tradition that Herbert Buck had "built the store."

Herbert Buck became a Wilmington selectman, and later a state legislator. He died in 1912. His son Rodney took over the business. The store burned down in 1913 - 1914 and a new store was built. That store had Wilmington's first telephone exchange, with eight customers, one of whom was the late Dr. Daniel Buzzell.

A good story, which completely neglected the story told by the late Asa Sheldon just after the Civil War. Asa always had a fascinating tale to tell, which rambled around and changed the subject often.

In one place he told of his bargaining about the price of a wood lot with Capt. George Washington Ford, a son of Cadwallader, the man who commanded the Wilmington Minutemen on Concord Day. The price was $1100.

Asa went home. He was living with Joshua Harnden in what is now called the Harnden Tavern. Then he went down to the store of Henry Carter, to talk money.

That store, about 1811, was somewhere about the site of the present Elia Store, or possibly across the street. There was, of course, no railroad.

Henry Carter, who owned the store lived on High Street, about the site of the present Perdicaro home, where also dwelt his brother, a man who for a period of time was treasurer of the early Boston & Maine Railroad.

Henry, it seems, owned the first store in Wilmington. Maybe.

place at the same time as the road widening and repaving project.

Matt said that according to the state, such simultaneous construction is more costly than doing the projects separately, which caused board members to wonder and Town Manager Michael Cairra to quip "It just does not make sense to anyone," with a pause for effect, "but the state."

Board members had few comments for Matt and Hendrickson, who indicated that a state public hearing on the construction could happen in August on the way to 75 percent plans being ready for this fall. Mass. EPA and Wilmington Conservation Commission approval would then still be necessary.

No state officials were present at the meeting, but Matt said the state has seen current plans three times and holds no major objections.

Main Street will remain open during construction, with a worst case scenario being a single lane of travel directed by police officers, according to Hendrickson.

Selectmen approve contract with Altman and Altman

The board of selectmen Monday approved by a 4-1 vote a contract for the law firm of Altman & Altman that will keep Town Counsel Alan Altman in the position he has held for the last 30 years.

Selectman James Rooney cast the lone vote against contract approval.

Rooney, who along with Selectman Robert Cain comprised a subcommittee to review the contract, argued that Altman, who retired as a town employee two years ago, should have retirement benefits he receives deducted from the $65,000 approved by Annual Town Meeting as salary for town counsel. Altman receives an additional $10,000 from the water and sewer commission, a practice initiated when Town Manager Michael Cairra reorganized the department in the early nineties.

"Alan Altman is certainly worth $75,000," Rooney stated, but felt that retirement benefits, which he said top $31,000 should be deducted from the $75,000 total.

But Altman's stance - and ultimately that of the board - was that Altman, who while retired as a town employee has remained town counsel through contracts with his law firm, is entitled to retirement benefits for his service to the town.

"Part of my retirement is money that I have invested" through salary deductions, Altman stated. "I don't think you ought to penalize me for working honorably for the town for 28 years."

Wilmington senior topics

Blood pressure-diabetes

Nurse Ann will be at the Senior Center Thursday, June 15 to administer blood pressure and diabetes checks. With the first day of summer a week away, it would be wise to have a diabetes test. Remember, it is a silent illness. Very little warning is evident that the illness is becoming active in the body.

A simple blood test by the nurse will let you know, if the sugar level in your blood is getting high. She will advise you to check with your doctor. In most cases diabetes can be controlled by diet and exercise. Plan to have a test on Thursday.

Commissioners meeting

Tuesday, June 20, the commissioners meeting will be held in the function room of the Senior Center starting at 1:30 p.m. New officers will be elected to serve the seniors for fiscal year '95-'96. We also welcome a new member to the board, Thomas Barrasso. Input from the seniors present will help the commissioners plan for the year ahead. With the good weather with us, you may say I don't have the time to attend. But the meetings are usually over in an hour. Take a break from yard and housework by attending the meeting on Tuesday.

Shine

Shine worker Donald Hodge will be at the Senior Center Wed., July 2 at 10 a.m. He will be assisting seniors with Medicare, Medicaid and other insurance claim forms. He will also be able to help by offering information on other health insurances. If you wish he will help by comparing one supplement health program with others. He can assist if you have having a problem with your present health insurance coverage. This is a new program funded through the Department of Elder Affairs for paid volunteers working strictly on health insurance coverage programs.

Raising grandchildren

More and more people are finding themselves raising grandchildren. This is a position most of them did not expect. When all their children have gone from the home it's supposed to be a time to be enjoyed. They never thought trying to keep up with small babies would be a new roll for them. The problem of finding enough strength and finances to care for grandchildren is frightening. Nearly 3.2 million American children are being raised by grandparents.

This is due to a variety of reasons, such as, the death of a child, divorce, teenage pregnancy, mental illness, substance abuse, loss of employment, child abuse, abandonment, and incarceration. The heavy strains placed on grandparents physically, emotionally and financially, can bring on many medical problems. Living on fixed income, most elderly have just enough money to care for themselves. Adding a grandchild with no medical insurance can bring on bankruptcy.

Those having problems trying to balance all the needs of grandchildren, AARP has established a Grandparent Information Center. Write AARP 601 E. Street, N.W. Washington D.C. 20049 for advise. If enough seniors caring for grandchildren would like to form a support group to help one another, contact the director at 657-7595.

George Spanos Award

The recipient of the George Spanos Award for 1995 exemplifies the spirit of the person for whom this award is presented. She has spent the past four years supporting and promoting the WHS Hockey team and without her efforts hockey assuredly would not have survived these trying economic times.

She was the first person of the "Face Off Club." An organization of team members' parents. This group has purchased new uniforms, sweat suits and other times too numerous to mention. They have also raised money this past year to help defray the cost of game ice.

She accomplished all of these things without a personal political agenda, her only agenda was the welfare of the players and Athletic Department. The George Spanos Award went to Shirley Barry.

Top Ten Award

The "Top Ten" Award is presented to a senior athlete who academically finishes in the top ten of his/her class.

WORKER'S COMPENSATION

QUESTION: When did Worker's Compensation come into effect and what does it cover?

ANSWER: The first Worker's Compensation Law went into effect in New York State in 1914. Originally, these laws protected workers in hazardous occupations such as mining, chemicals and blasting operations. Coverage has now increased to include all occupations.

Worker's Comp. pays benefits for illness or injuries that are caused by an individual's job. It also helps in reducing injuries by means of safety programs. Insurers often give companies special prevention incentives in conjunction with these programs.

Tewksbury softball team gearing up for next year

by James Pote
After losing seven one run ball games, and finishing the season with their second win over Lawrence, who is still in the state tournament, the Tewksbury varsity softball team finished their season at 6-12.

Even though there was some frustration over this season with the closeness of the games, head coach Leo DiRocco knows that frustration will turn into smiles.

"I'm already looking forward to next year. If the girls work hard over the summer and continue to improve then we will be knocking down a few doors."

However, DiRocco said it is disappointing to see the team not playing right now in the state tournament, even though they beat some of the best teams around the league.

"We played with the best of them. Our biggest problem was we didn't know how to win the 3-2 ball games. We have learned a lot of things this year and hopefully next year we will be able to win those kinds of games."

With this season coming to end, so will the careers of three players. The first is left fielder and the co-M.V.P. of the Merrimack Valley All-Star game for hitting a three run homer, in Leslie Dobbins. DiRocco said after coaching her four years in softball and also coaching her in the junior varsity level in basketball, he hates to see her leave.

"Leslie had a spectacular career. She's a great, great kid who showed that good things could happen to those who worked hard."

DiRocco also said that strategy of working hard proved valuable to another all-star selection in Dianna Day, who is the second senior to be vacating.

The last of the three part time first baseman/designated hitter to leave is Kristin Thompson who also had a fine season.

However, next season's success will mostly rely upon the middle tandem, which is an obvious strength. Freshman Heidi Von Kahle is the first step to the success ladder, on the mound after turning in a tremendous first year. Junior Holly Perrin will be back as one of the tri-captains and she was one of, if not the best defensive catcher in the league - and according to DiRocco that helped in a big, big way.

"With Holly back there, we didn't have any teams running on us and we could field the bunts very well. She is very good."

The double play combination of Christine Delle Donne and Sue Perkins will combine for stellar plays in the future. The latter played extremely well in the final stretch of the season after doing many backhander and ranging drills with the coaching staff.

The final step of the ladder will be center fielder Alyson Downey, who will be the second of the tri-captains for next year's club.

Jennifer Lightfoot, the third captain for next year, will be returning with her superb glove at the hot corner, which of course is the hardest position to play in softball at third base.

Other who will be returning will be outfielder Val Bemis, first basemen Don Welch and Kim Anderson.

However, there could be some immediate help from the junior varsity level in Melissa Doherty and Jamie Lightfoot and perhaps a few more.

Those doors, shall be knocking!

It's a soggy world

by Bill Conlon

This planet of ours could rightly be called Waterworld.

Yes, yes. We've all heard that the Earth's surface is three-quarters and one quarter dry, but even that isn't quite accurate. (All the rain we've had lately, along with causing mushrooms to sprout from my scalp and armpits, got me to thinking...)

True, some seven-tenths of Earth's surface is covered with oceans. The rest of the surface -- the land -- still has considerable water in it. (Less than one percent of the water on this planet is fresh, by the way.)

When the rain falls, either as rain or snow, it collects in puddles. The puddles overflow into trickles, then streams, then rivers, and finally the rivers empty into the sea. All that fresh water pouring into the ocean has had little effect on the salinity of the seas, since the water evaporates right back out and falls again as rain. The ocean is still as salty as ever, and always will be.

But much of the water falling on our lawns and gardens right now will never make it to the ocean.

Just beneath our feet is something called the water table. Water soaks into the ground, and it finds its own level. In the spring, the water table is higher, and that's why people who want to install a new septic system must have their "deep hole" test done in the spring, to see how high the water table rises. If the groundwater hits the level of the proposed leaching field for the septic system, the system won't work. You fail.

Groundwater is a curious thing. In some places the groundwater is too far beneath the surface to be a factor (a desert) while in other spots the water table meets the ground surface (a swamp or a spring) or it may be higher than the ground level (as in a pond). The water is always there.

Differences in the geology of the area can affect the water table. I've seen freshwater springs pouring out of mountainsides, far above the level of the valley below. Why doesn't the water simply ooze through the rock, down to the lowest possible ground level? The crucial word is "rock." Water can't flow through a rock, so the rain falling on the side of the mountain collects on top of the rock. A break in the surface will produce a spring, where no spring should logically exist.

In some places, the groundwater is able to collect, say in areas of sand or crushed stone, causing what is known as an aquifer.

An aquifer is basically an underground lake. If you drill down to the aquifer level, you can pump the water out and use it for irrigation and wells. In the Midwest, much of the water used on crops there comes from the huge Ogallala Aquifer, but there has been talk that the Ogallala is running dry, and people are asking how the aquifer can be "recharged."

Sometimes, the aquifer isn't a lake as much as it is a river. There are huge rivers of water flowing under our feet, usually as a slow trickle but sometimes as a raging current. In Florida, underground currents will sometimes wash away large areas of surface dirt, causing a "sinkhole" to appear without warning. News out of Florida occasionally has features about enormous sinkholes opening up suddenly, swallowing houses and cars. Scary stuff!

In mountain states, heavy rain or snowmelt cause the soil on the hillside to get wet, then slide away. When I was living in Utah, one year we had an awful time with mudslides, washing homes away and damaging others. Thousands of volunteers turned out to fill sandbags and stack them along streams, hoping to keep the spring floods from destroying riverside homes.

In this part of the country we're pretty lucky. Our groundwater does little damage. We don't have many sinkholes or mudslides, and we get so much water that we don't need to rely on aquifers or deep wells for drinking water. Water doesn't pose too many dangers around here.

But one of these days, ask your grandparents to tell you all about the Great Flood of 1936 in Lowell. The Merrimack River got so high that it covered some of Lowell's bridges!

GIRLS KINDERGARTEN

LIGHTNING VS LEPRECHAUNS

The Lightning pulled together as a team, highlighted by the excellent all around field play of Alexa Siegel and Kim Koerber. Andrea Stafford and Stephanie Siedman sparked the offense, while Jaclyn Smith provided super netminding. Katie McFeeters and Christine Marques led the forward attack for the Leprechauns, with teammates Christina Luciano and Alyssa Hanley popping the ball in for scores. Kayli Lawler held the midfield and Katelyn Maggio was terrific as goalie.

Michelle St. Aubin and Danielle Robarge pressed hard on offense. The Golden Girls offense was right on target, with Shannell Courtois, Leah Delrossi, Lauren Heenan and Danielli Bamberg banging home goals. Margaret Sorrentino and Hannah Blaisdell tied up the defensive end tightly.

LADYBUGS VS UNICORNS

Caitlen Breshahan, Samantha Little, Jennifer Keating and Cecelia Pettigrew set a furious offensive pace for the Ladybugs. Kelsey Kusa dominated the backfield with outstanding defensive plays, while Brianna Maglio was brilliant at sweeper. Brianna Bozzella scored for the Unicorns this week, with Kelly O'Neil, assisted by Emily Clapp, booting in another. Laura Gillis, Nicole Bradlee and Jessie Lauziere rounded out a great team effort, with excellent mid and backfield control.

BUTTERFLIES VS WILDCATS

Butterflies goalies Katelyn McGrath and Chelsea Gish played superbly in net, behind the tough defense of Tara McNabb and Colleen Tuck. Allysha Evans, Katie Arsenault and Katelyn Phaup led the offensive drive, challenging the opponents repeatedly. Roaring into action, Wildcat forwards pressed hard and scored on the fine plays of Courtney Parsons, Krysten Augello and Jennelle Ciulla. Kerri Stinson, Amanda Gagne and Gabrielle Hauray provided excellent midfield coverage.

BOYS KINDERGARTEN

M & M'S VS CHUNKIES

Great goaltending by Michael Stewart, and accurate passing between Ryan Loring, Jerry Smith and John Bishop put the M&M's in control of their own zone. Forwards Ryan Brendan and C.J. Jeannette worked the ball upfield, booting home several tough goals. The Chunkies set off offensive fireworks with the super moves and superb scores of forwards Josh Mayo and Carlos Moran. Spectacular fieldplay by Mike Giamberardino, Eric Cummings and Adam Levine were highlights in this tight match.

SKITTLES VS. ZAGNUTS

In a strong offensive showing, the Skittles posted scores on excellent plays by Mark Walsh and Mike Wilson. With Zachary Ciampa, Ryan Jones, Ben Barrasso and Nicholas Scaduto playing perhaps their best field games to date, the Skittles covered the field with skill and enthusiasm. The Zagnuts were not to be denied either. Brendan Sheehan, Danny Metcalf, Patrick McGerry, Joey Sheehan and Danny Silva lit up the scoreboard, while the whole team played incredible defense, especially Nathan Mercer.

SNICKERS VS MILKY WAYS

The Snickers burst onto the field, led by the hustle and determination of Sean Eagan, Kyle Borsetti, Joshua Bodah and Derek Stuke. Michael Larfarello and Robert Mahoney showed fine field talent and good anticipation, wrapping up the defensive zone. With improved team work and great passing, the Milky Ways scored on the stellar play of Dana Steenbruggen and Kevin McDonough. Michael Golden was unbeatable in net, supported by dynamite defenders Ralph Newhouse and Christopher Dancoe.

JOLLY RANCHERS VS JAWBREAKERS

Jawbreakers Jason Riopelle, Kyle Mendelson and Steven Hughson hustled up and down field at break-neck speed, providing unending excitement.

Midfield play by Christopher Bocchino, Brenden O'Riorden and Vincent See was totally amazing.

THE CRUNCH VS MUSKETEERS

Jason Evans' strong kick, Patrick Ryan's determination and Dan Evans' all around outstanding play set the tone for this excellent team effort by The Crunch. Nathan Axelson in net made some awesome saves. Fired up by Michael Johnson's and Tim Kent's goals, the Musketeers played an amazing game. Tough "D" by Michael Emery and Michael Thomas closed down the backfield, while goaltenders Chris Lyon and Andrew Barrett sealed up the net.

REESE'S PIECES VS TERAJERKERS

Reese's Pieces goalie Michal Jensen was outstanding in net, supported by the great defensive play of Jesse Belding and Scott Bransfield. Anthony DiGiovine and Eric Legro both scored beauties, assisted each time by super forward Steven Shibilila. Kenny Adams set up an offensive control zone for the Tearjerkers, aided by the hustle and dribbling skills of Patrick Schultz and Matthew Brook. Justin Patrie provided the scoring, while Chris Welch contributed midfield strength. Tom Coughlin was a standout in goal.

GIRLS GRADE 1

THISTLES VS THORNS

These well matched teams played another tight match, going right down until the final whistle. The Thistles pressed relentlessly, with Kathleen Strazzer making some great shots on goal. Cross-field kicks by Carla Ellis and dedicated defense by Katie Bolger tied up the backfield. Jacquelyn Stokes, Kayla Fraser and Kaileen Butler kept up the offensive pressure for the Thorns, with Kelley Lemke booting in the only goal. Adrienne Masiello and Meghan Reardon provided excellent defensive backup.

TIGER LILIES VS HEMLOCKS

Ashley Ricardo and Lauren Murphy teamed up for some amazing defensive maneuvers, in front of the unbeatable pair of Tiger Lilies keepers, Ashley Broussard and Eileene Jordan. Amber Warnick moved the ball well, and Debbie Rooker scored her first goal of the season - a Beauty! The Hemlocks answered with great footwork by Katie Celli, and heartstopping plays by Danielle O'Shea. Kim Gentile and Courtney Browne played marvelous midfield games, with defender Colleen Sampson and keeper Dina Ferranti wrapping up the backfield.

POISON IVY VS SNAPDRAGONS

Poison Ivy forwards were itching to score, as Jacilyn Sousa and Katelyn Kaufman poured on the speed. Jacqueline Laliberte and Jessica Martin did a super job covering the defensive zone, while keepers Katlyn Lynch and Angela Jackson made some amazing saves. The Snapdragons jumped onto the scoreboard on Krystal Beaudin's boots, assisted by Brittany Hanafin and Erin Magee. Excellent footwork by Mallory Derosa, and Jennifer Comer snapping in goals, wrapped up a great game for the Snapdragons.

BOYS GRADE 1

SMOKIN GUNS VS BRITISH BULLDOGS

The Smokin Guns' constant pressure finally paid off as Phillip Russo was able to put one in the net in a very evenly matched game. Derek Flodin and Mark Bernardo made exceptional plays by keeping to their positions. Michael Fogarty made several excellent saves in goal. Rick Fudge turned in an MVP caliber performance as he went the distance in goal for the British Bulldogs, making at least half a dozen tough saves. Jonathan Ryan and Stephen Tower played tight defense, to keep this game even. Strong offensive pressure from Daniel Tobin and John Ungaro helped Dave Rousseaux chalk up the tying goal.

POWER & GLORY VS LEGION OF DOOM

WOBURN — The 17th Annual Kiwanis Flag Day festivities will be held this weekend on June 16 and June 17, culminating in the traditional fireworks display around 9:30 p.m.

This year, the event will include a carnival Friday night from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The carnival will also run Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Among the variety of other events at the Flag Day celebration will be an open air flea market on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Kids activities, sponsored by the Middlesex Lions Club, will run from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday and include pony rides, a pie-eating contest, sack races, and much more. (The ponies are being donated Albert J. Wall and Winning Farm.)

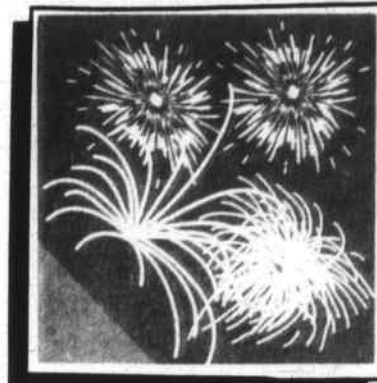

A number of local musical groups will also provide live concerts from 1 p.m. Saturday until 9:30 p.m.

Among those performing will be Allison Engine, the Orfans, the Jazz Merchants, Jozlin Bones, and Reaction.

In addition there will be a large number of food and entertainment booths, including a dunk tank with a number of local politicians and celebrities waiting above a tank of water, ready to get wet.

The two days of activity will culminate with the large fireworks display, similar to that in Boston on July 4, with a thunderous conclusion accompanied by the performance of the "1812 Overture" by the Woburn City Band.

Get dad a gift he could really use

BURLINGTON — Children, wives, grandchildren and others looking for a special gift for dad this Father's Day, give the America Lung Association's 1995 Golf Privilege Card.

At only $39.95, this is the best and most sought after public golfing value in Massachusetts.

"There's over $1,400 worth of golf with the American Lung Association's golfing program," Mike Eruzione, 1980 Olympic hockey hero and American Lung Association of Golf Privilege Card Co-chair, said.

Joining Eruzione as co-chair is Channel 7 Sports Anchor, Gene Lavanchy.

"Not only is this the best value for playing public golf, but every purchase supports the fight against lung diseases, the third leading cause of death in America," Lavanchy said.

"Started 12 years ago, the Lung Association's Golf Privilege Card is the original article," Eruzione said. "Each year the people at the American Lung Association work with courses to get the best value for golfers."

Eruzione concluded, "When I first started, there were only 10 courses involved in the program, now there are over 80."

Golfers can choose from local courses including Country Club of Billerica, Colonial Golf Club in Wakefield, Apple Country Club in Chelmsford, Middleton Golf Course, and Mt. Hood in Melrose, as well as Ironwood Golf and Bating in Woburn and Kimball Farm Driving Range and Pitch and Put in Westford.

Other favorite golf courses include Ballymeade Country Club in Falmouth, Strawberry Hills in Leicester and Presidents Golf Course.

Benardo DeMaimo was one of the area's pioneer pizza makers. He made each one with a little bit of love. The demand for one of his pizzas was so great, he gave up baking bread and devoted full time to pizza making. He asked by Aunt Nora one day, "how do you want your pizza cut, six or eight pieces?" "You better make it six pieces," Aunt Nora replied, "I'm on a diet."

My Uncle John Shea used to say, "never run after a streetcar, bus or a woman, wait awhile, another one will be along soon."

Napoleon was never a politician. Every picture and statue of him shows that he has his hands in his own pockets.

Kathy just told me, "I was a fool when I married you!" I smiled and said, "I new it all the time but, I married you anyway."

Folks, people like the great Yankee catcher Yogi Berra help me write this column. I asked Yogi, "Do any of the old gang in Brooklyn still hang out in the neighborhood corner lunchroom?" "Naw Chipper," he said, "there's nobody there anymore, it's too crowded!"

Charles Smith said to Bob O'Leary, "Bob, you can't hold up the game any longer looking for your lost golf ball?" "I'm NOT looking for the ball," Bob shouted, "I found that, I'm looking for my 'golf club' now!"

Alan Dumont, Joe D'Ambrosio, Frank Anderson and Joe James are "Nature Lovers."

They are literally for the "Birds."

Sign at the Marines Training Center in Quantico, Virginia, "If you can't lead and won't follow - get the heck OUT of the way."

A panhandler rang George Goulds doorbell, then asked for a handout. "I'm sorry" George said to the poor fellow, "But, here's a letter of introduction for Bob Bonney, next door."

Vic Grasso has the right idea. He doesn't give any wedding gifts until two years after the marriage. He explains it this way, "I'm getting tired of giving the same bride a wedding gift for the 'second time' in less than two years."

Dennis Tully sang this song, "congratulations teacher dear. You made it through another year. And, 'Good Luck' to the grouchy school bus driver. It's a miracle you are a Real Survivor!"

When Father Dick said in a sermon, "We are on earth to help others," George Gould tapped me on the shoulder and said, "Chipper what are the others here for?"

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

Teens on TAP

They 'be' the judge

Malden District Court Judge Paul Cavanaugh is getting some sentencing ideas from a panel of teens, some of whom are participating willingly, some voluntarily in a "jury of their peers."

The Teen Advisory Panel, "a model program for other court jurisdictions," according to one court spokesperson, is unique in Massachusetts. Teens from Wakefield, Melrose, Malden, and Everett have been meeting once a month for more than a year but do not actually serve on teen courts as jurors or judges as do teens in at least 14 other states.

"Adults have their peers when they go to a court; the kids have no one," says Cavanaugh, in the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle." "This lets them know there's someone out there who at least wants to hear what's on their minds ... You listen to them and if you don't like what they say, then you don't put it into effect. There's no harm in listening."

The judge is benefitting from suggestions such as "slash a tire - and you have to walk seven miles on a hot day," "set off a homemade explosive - and you have to help nurse burn victims at a hospital," "spray graffiti on a wall - and you have to scrub it off."

The kids are learning about court and community.

"The TAP meetings work," says one teen, "because he lets us talk. He listens to us. He doesn't ignore us."

"Once kids feel they are part of the system, rather than ... merely part of the problem, they don't feel as victimized by it," says one parent. "We're coming back."

Main St., USA

Wakefield is considering shutting down Main Street for a Sunday and opening it up to walkers, runner, bicyclists, and rollerbladers who might want to take advantage of the Main St. side of Lake Quannapowitt.

Solid grant money

North Reading, Tewksbury, Wilmington, and Winchester are among several communities scheduled to receive a North East Solid Waste Committee Grant from the Clean Environment Fund.

North Reading will receive $4,293, based on the number of tons recycled from May to December 1994: more than 477.

The legislature created the Clean Environment Fund to sponsor programs such as the Guaranteed Annual Tonnage Program and is funded by the redemption of unclaimed bottles. Massachusetts has set a statewide goal to increase recycling to 45 percent of municipal solid waste by the year 2000. The grant program was established to help NESWC communities offset the cost of recycling which by July 1st will cost them $91.50 a ton, almost twice the state average.

In the Hood

Despite concerns that tax dollars could end up being used to pay for the necessary matching funds, Melrose aldermen have decided that the City of Melrose should apply for a half million dollar state grant to make improvements to the Mount Hood Golf Course and recreation area.

Under the grant formula, the city is eligible for up to $500,000 and if awarded that much, would have to contribute an additional $280,000.

According to Community Development Director Jeff Luxenburg, improvements contained in the city master plan for the Mount Hood Golf course and recreation area could cost about $4.5 million. If the combined $780,000 comes through, improvements likely to be made during the first year include: mapping wetlands and conservation areas; improving the clubhouse, main garage and golf course barn as well as golf drainage; establishing wells and a new irrigation system; creating walking and jogging paths and improving existing ones so residents who use the trails won't feel like they're part of the golf course; and redefining and expanding parking areas, particularly for passive recreation.

The city won't know until October if the matching funds required will be too much but if they are, could reject the grant.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Greater Medford VNA celebrates 95th anniversary

As the Greater Medford Visiting Nursing Association (VNA) begins celebrating its 95th anniversary, it is also celebrating tremendous growth. During the past two years, the agency has grown 104 percent.

According to Jeff Pringle, executive director at the Greater Medford VNA, the growth is part of a national trend that is placing greater reliance on community and home based care to help reduce health care costs. The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics has cited home care as the fastest growing segment of the health care industry, growing five times faster than the average for the entire health industry between 1988 and 1993.

In 1994, the Greater Medford VNA experienced a 45% increase in census and made 40% more visits to individuals and families living in Medford, Malden, Somerville, Stoneham, Melrose, Everett, Winchester, Arlington and neighboring communities. Pringle stated that the agency is growing at a rate of 40% annually.

He noted that as hospital stays have become shorter, patients are going home earlier in their recuperation and have more advanced health care needs. To meet the needs of these patients with higher acuity, the Greater Medford VNA has developed a comprehensive array of programs and services ranging from skilled nursing and rehabilitation therapy to psychiatric nursing, AIDS care and early maternity discharges.

The Greater Medford VNA is a not-for-profit, Medicare certified home health agency that has served the greater Medford area since 1900. It offers a comprehensive range of home health care services designed to enable people of all ages to receive care, remain independent or recuperate in the privacy and comfort of their own homes.

Fighting cancer through a charitable bequest

The war against cancer, America's second largest killer disease, is being fought daily in hospitals and research laboratories around the nation. But despite the intense search for answers to relieve the suffering of cancer patients and their families, this war is a long-term effort rewarded by victories won painstakingly, a step at a time.

Recent research studies have shown that reducing the risk for many of the most common forms of cancer is possible with simple changes to a healthier lifestyle. A study published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute reported that just regular exercise by post-menopausal women could lower their breast cancer risk. Numerous studies have found that a diet high in fat increases cancer risk, while eating more fruits, vegetables and whole grains is effective in reducing cancer risk.

While such findings are beginning to change the way people live and are helping to reduce their cancer risk, there are still unanswered questions about this tragic disease. Scientists still do not understand why cancer risk is higher for some people, or exactly why certain foods and chemicals promote cancer, while others prevent it.
Because so many people have been personally affected by the tragedy of cancer and want to help researchers find effective answers for cancer prevention, there has been a substantial increase in people who are including bequests for cancer research in their wills. The American Institute for Cancer Research has even developed a special League of Willful Cancer Fighters to acknowledge people making this type of charitable bequest.
The Institute has prepared a special booklet explaining charitable bequests and the role they can play in fighting cancer. A free copy of the booklet, "The Flexibility of Bequests to Combat Cancer," is available by writing to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. FB, Washington, DC 20069.

Teachers protest lack of contract

March in June

More than 130 Woburn teachers marched recently in front of City Hall and around the Woburn Common to protest their being without a contract since September. The City of Woburn is also in negotiations with two police unions, the firefighters' union, city hall workers' union, and DPW union.

Among many comments made about the march, Mayor John Rabbitt, according to the Woburn "Times," noted that the head of the Woburn Teachers Association is making more money than the mayor and only works 180 days a year.

Apples for the teachers and....

Symbolic apples for faculty members who have made outstanding contributions to students at Burlington's Marshall Simonds Middle School have gone to Ceil Bova, Lucy Morris, Susan Rogers, David Pearl, Barbara Gorney, and Barbara Dembrowski.

Marshall Simonds social studies students of the month are Lynsey Legier, Allison Milley, and Jen Radosa.

And Burlington High award winners in the VFW Post 7423 Voice of Democracy Script-Writing Contest are top winner Reshna Patil and runners-up Emily Ko and Hotal Dave.

"M.E.'s for You"

Changing SATs

Reading, says Woburn Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum Dr. Louise Nolan, is the single most important factor on the SAT - and she's disturbed, according to the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," that "students all do better on the math than verbal sections."

Although the number of Woburn students taking the SAT test has decreased over the last 17 years, the percentage of students taking the test has increased from 38 percent to 67 percent, according to Nolan, in the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

Nolan also reports that the SAT test is changing dramatically to reflect cultural diversity and test reasoning ability rather than rote knowledge. The verbal portion asks students to make analogies, look for relationships between different words and make inferences. The math portion also looks more to reasoning ability and open-ended questions.

Reviewing graphs of student scores showing influences of parental education and income, Nolan told the School Committee that Woburn students scored better in math than would be expected given the demographic make-up of the community but lower than expected on the verbal portion based on income level, and where expected, based on educational level.

She predicts a rise in verbal scores beginning with this year's students who have been through three-year middle schools where instructors have tried to make the reading program more integrated and continuous.

Paying the price

Local architect Charles Tseckares estimates $250,000 to be the cost of developing a complete set of plans and specifications to renovate Winchester's deteriorating public schools, according to the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

He told the Winchester School Committee recently that figures between $35 and $50 per square foot could be required for the seven school buildings, with $35 being on the very low side. Town Meeting was expected to discuss the next steps.

Making the grade

Play It Again Sports in Stoneham is rewarding good grades in the following ways: for two weeks after students receive their report cards, with each $10-plus purchase, they will be eligible for a $1 discount for each 'A' and a 50-cent discount for each 'B,' up to a maximum $5-discount. "This will be an excellent way to reward students who have done well in school," says Brian Coleman of Play It Again.

What a grade idea!

Places To Eat and Things To Do

NORTH SHORE ROCK & MINERAL CLUB members (l to r) Julia Fielding, Wilmington, and Dick and June Carner of Woburn examine an impressive 32 lb. specimen of beryl, a mineral family that includes the gemstones emerald and aquamarine. It is one of a number of interesting silicate minerals that will be exhibited at the Club's upcoming New England Gem & Mineral Show on Saturday, June 17 and Sunday, June 18 at Masconomet Regional School, Topsfield (Endicott Road exit, Route 95).

Animal Rescue League participates

June is Adopt-A-Cat month in Mass.

From cuddly kittens to terrific tom cats and tabbies, feline companions of every size and shape are hoping to find good homes during June's Adopt-A-Cat observation.

The Animal Rescue League of Boston is participating in this annual effort to encourage adoption of homeless cats and kittens, sponsored nationwide by the American Humane Association.

The month of June was selected Adopt-a-Cat month because this is the time of year when anyone wishing to adopt a cat can be sure of finding the widest possible selection of appealing, attractive and friendly animals in need of homes. Because most female cats in the United States experience a heat cycle in February or March (Triggered by lengthening periods of daylight), adoption shelters are usually filled with litters of kittens, young cats and often their mothers as well, by late spring and early summer.

Last year, the Animal Rescue League was able to find homes for more than 3100 cats and kittens, and they are hoping to increase the numbers this year. Anyone who has for a feline companion, celebrate Adopt-a-Cat Month by visiting the nearest Animal Rescue League shelter.

The League's Adoption shelter at its Boston Headquarters, 10 Chandler Street (corner of Tremont and Arlington Streets) is open from 10 am to 4 pm, seven days a week. For further information, call (617) 426-9170.

Please adopt me.

More than 20 teams from Boston - including Boston high school students, bankers, barristers, ballerinas and bookkeepers - will race authentic 39-foot

Hong Kong dragon boats over a 640-meter course on the Charles River in a series of eliminations.

The Hong Kong boats are slim, teakwood racers with a dragon's head at the prow and a tail at the stern. Decorated in brilliant Chinese colors, each boat has a crew of 20, a steersperson and a drummer who sits at the dragon head to keep the rhythm for the crew along the course. Dragon boat racing is unique for its fast-paddling pace and speed.

Boston Dragon Boat Festival this Saturday

From China to the Charles River, the Hong Kong Dragon Boat Festival comes to Boston.

Out of the mist on Boston's Charles River, lavishly decorated dragon boats from Hong Kong emerge with 24 teams of Bostonians paddling rhythmically to the drum.

The competition is on for Saturday, June 17 from 11 am to 4 pm when the elaborate boats will glide across the Charles River at the MDC's Hatch Memorial Shell.

Dragon boat racing is one of the most exciting and popular summer festivals in China, and is becoming a major international sporting event. Now the color and spirit of this ancient tradition will come alive on the Charles River.

The festival will begin at 11 am with a parade led by a lion dance and the traditional opening ceremony in which city leaders, including Boston's Mayor Thomas Menino, The Children's Museum's Director, Lou Casagrande, dot the eye of the dragon.

Hold a spot for conservation camp

The Massachusetts Junior Conservation Camp is now accepting applications from youngsters ages 14-17 who are interested in the outdoors! Summer will be here before you know it and the time to reserve a spot for this unusual camp is now!

This two week program provides campers with a solid grounding in outdoor knowledge, soil science, fisheries management, wildlife management, and outdoor skills, fly casting, archery, shooting skills and orienteering. For those who have never tried these, the camp offers a place to begin under the guidance of expert instructors.

For those who are already proficient, the camp provides a place to hone outdoor skills to the expert level. Even longtime sportsmen and women would love to go along on field trips and guided tours of wildlife management areas or a fish hatchery, or to take part in special programs such as ones on birds of prey or logging with horses - but this one is reserved for kids.

Dates in 1995 are June 25 to July 7. This is the only session. Register now, $400 will cover all expenses for two weeks including all you can eat meals, cost of field trips, ammunition and equipment, everything except stamps for writing home! Some financial assistance is available. For a free brochure and an application form call (508) 792-7270.

Benefit Fishing Derby in Lowell

The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers Two Day Benefit Fishing derby will be held on June 17th and 18th. The derby starts at 7:00 am Saturday and ends at 3:00 pm Sunday June 18th. Any participant may fish during any or all of the 32 hours of the derby.

The Merrimack River is the location from the NH border to Duck Island in Lowell, MA. The headquarters will be at the old Bath House on Pawtucket Blvd in Lowell, next to the Bandstand. The Bath House is about 1/2 mile upstream from the Pawtucket Falls and is across the street from the Heritage Ice Cream Stand. It is a one story red brick building.

The entry fee is $15.00 per person regardless of age. The entry fee allows a participant to fish the entire derby and that participant may win a prize in each of the three categories.

There are three fish categories, Largemouth Bass, Smallmouth Bass and Carp. A participant may win only one prize in each category. Example - If a person caught the largest fish in each category they would win $1500.00 - Three times the first place prize of $500.00 in each category.

Weigh-ins are at the old Bath House Headquarters and will be open during the entire derby. All fish must be weighed in live. Dead fish will not be accepted.

Persons do not need a Mass Fishing license to fish in this derby. It is a free fishing weekend in Mass during the derby.

Call Lenny Mills 508-251-4530 or Mike Galante 508-459-9109 for additional information or an application.

The UV index

Launched last summer by the National Weather Service (NWS) as well as by private national weather reporting services, the UV Index provides a daily reading of the UV risk level as part of the local weather forecast. It also included helpful information on daily sun protection, such as an estimate of how quickly people may sunburn if unprotected, so Americans can take steps to protect their skin and eyes. Look for the UV Index everyday to plan outdoor activities.

Using a scale of 0-10 or higher in some areas, the UV Index also describes the strength of the sun's UV rays in five levels: minimal, low, moderate, high and very high. These levels, which were developed by NWS in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency and national public health groups, are based on the likelihood of sunburn to "fair" skinned individuals, (those who sometimes tan but usually burn). However, even for people who don't have fair skin, these levels serve as a valuable reference tool, since all skin types can experience skin damage and other effects from overexposure to UV rays. Because the UV Index is a new part of the weather forecast, the best way for consumers to begin using the UV Index is to pay attention to the terms that follow the UV Index number. Here are what the levels mean:

If the UV Index is:
0-2 or minimal - this means minimal danger from the sun's UV radiation. As a result, the average person can stay in the noon sun unprotected for up to one hour without burning.

3-4 or low - this involves some risk of harm from the sun. At this level, the average person will burn in 45 minutes if unprotected.

5-6 or moderate - this indicates some measurable risk of skin damage due to the sun. Unprotected exposure can result in a burn in only 30 minutes.

7-10 or high - this indicates high risk of harm from unprotected exposure to the sun. At this level, the average person will burn in under 15 minutes or less.

Movies From S-16

A Crimson Tide is an underrated action flick that looks great and has serious star power, but can't get past the claustrophobic technology that slows it down. Denzel Washington is second-in-command to Gene Hackman, a career Navy man who believes in following directives at all costs, even if it means nuclear war. These two are arresting and the flick looks slick, but this is not as exciting as it needed to be. In fact, it's kind of dull. Rated R **

Forget Paris is a romantic comedy starring Billy Crystal and Debra Winger as a seemingly mismatched couple. Three-quarters of this flick is sidesplittingly funny and filled with delightful dialogue, but it runs out of steam while trying to give us a happy ending. He's an NBA referee, she's a big deal airline executive. They live on different continents, but share a biting sense of humor. Winger is a surprise, not because she brings tenderness to a role that could have been brittle, but that she is so funny. Rated PG-13. ***

The Englishman Who Went up a Hill, but Came Down a Mountain is an endearing, if slight picture filled with eccentric characters who are quite serious about their beloved mountain in Wales. Set in 1917, it stars Hugh Grant, a map maker who finds the local landmark is nothing more than a hill, a fact the villagers hope to change. Sweet humor, a lovely sentiment, clever dialogue, and glorious scenery make this modest flick a success. Rated PG. ***

Casper, put most simply, is a blast. Amazing visuals and camera trickery turn this fast-paced, gag-laden tale of a ghost and his new human friend into a delightful family treat. Okay, so the story is all over the place, and the pacing uneven. You'll find you don't care, thanks to the state-of-the-art special effects, fun performances by Christina Ricci and Bill Pullman, and the non-stop vaudeville act performed by Casper's three ghostly uncles. ## Saving American Jobs

by Morton Bahr, President, Communications Workers of America
"NAPS—What some people call the 'job problem,' more and more is becoming a big concern—the subject of major studies and books.

Bahr

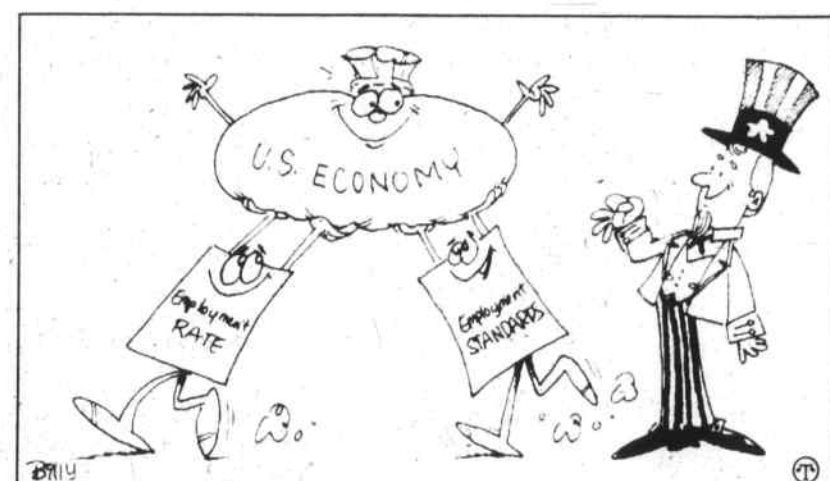

This "problem" really is nothing new to working people. A survey by the New York Times found almost 80 percent of Americans have a friend or family member who has been re-engineered, down-sized, surplus-ed—fired—in recent years. Forty percent feel personally threatened by layoffs or a cut in salary and 67 percent are worried that job loss is eroding their communities.

What's more, real family income is declining and today's two-wage-earner generation is working hard to achieve less than their parents.

It's become clear to think-tankers and futurists that the destruction of jobs—permanent jobs with decent pay and secure benefits—is a long range and worldwide problem.

The rapid pace of computer technology used to replace people is the central focus, but automation is also coupled with corporate strategies to "outsource" to cheap labor markets and rely on low-paid temporary or "disposable" workers to maximize profits.

In the age of multinational companies, which some term the "stateless corporation," these trends are global. Jeremy Rifkin, an economist and foreign affairs expert who heads the Foundation on Economic Trends, notes that fear over declining jobs and living standards has spread unrest in Europe: "Frightened, angry voters have expressed their frustration at the ballot box, boosting the electoral fortunes of extreme-right-wing parties in Germany, Italy and Russia," he wrote, before the 1994 U.S. elections.

Preserving and improving America's economy, experts say, involves maintaining a high employment rate and high employment standards.

"If...the dramatic productivity gains of the high-tech revolution are not shared," Rifkin concludes, "but rather used primarily to enhance corporate profit, to the exclusive benefit of stockholders, top corporate managers, and the emerging elite of high-tech knowledge workers, chances are that the growing gap between the haves and the have-nots will lead to social and political upheaval on a global scale."

Here in the U.S., many people assume that the Information Highway will be the road to creating good, skilled technical jobs to replace the high-wage manufacturing jobs that have disappeared in the U.S.

That vision won't be realized, however, unless we make it happen. The telecommunications industry is the engine of the information age, the driving force for building what's called the Information Highway.

We can, however, see in this enormously profitable industry—$16 billion a year in profits, in fact—the same strategies that have sucked the good jobs out of other industries: runaway plants and offices, reengineering solely to reduce head count, excessive contracting to cheap labor sources and the building of larger permanent "temp" labor pools.

The answer, on the other hand, can be found in increased job security, eliminating excessive subcontracting and use of temps, expanded training and education and improved access through transfer rights and union recognition to jobs in new ventures and acquisitions as companies move into the information future.

This could mean the preservation and creation of good jobs with justice for the future of all Americans.

by Rochelle Flynn

"Congo" starring Dylan Walsh, Laura Linney, Ernie Hudson, Grant Heslov, Tim Curry, Joe Don Baker. Directed by Frank Marshall. Screenplay by John Patrick Shanley. Produced by Kathleen Kennedy, Sam Mercer. Based on the novel by Michael Crichton. Rated PG-13.

Scientists, safaris, satellites. Killer gorillas, the lost city of Zinj, diamonds, volcanic eruptions, a hero more butch than John Wayne. "Congo" contains all the makings of a grade B, 1950's studio adventure, except for the (mostly) bio-budget, 1990's special effects. The result is all very retro.

Laura Linney is the no-nonsense scientist who attaches herself to a safari heading for the same dense section of Africa in which her company lost an expedition. The missing men were looking for a supply of flawless diamonds to help them dominate the communications industry. The expedition she's hooked up with has much more benign reasons for travelling. Led by a primatologist (Dylan

"Congo", Short Takes

Walsh), the group plans to free a sign-language speaking gorilla back into its native habitat.

Financing the trip to Africa is a Hungarian philanthropist whose motives, and accent, are suspect, Tim Curry, who always has plenty of screen presence, provides the comic relief with this role, which is most memorable for its stogy, humorous accent. Joe Don Baker is the paranoid head of the communications company that has to have those diamonds, human life be damned.

Walsh is sweet enough, but not memorable as the well-intentioned scientist. This is Linney's movie. She's stronger and more capable than most of the men, but still has plenty of personality. The other tough guy in the film, a guide played by Ernie Hudson, relies more on humor than macho posturings. It's an intriguing combination.

The real star, however, is Amy, a mountain gorilla who actually does speak American Sign Language. Amy is played by herself and a mechanical clone, created by Stan Winston, the man who won an Oscar for the dinosaurs of "Jurassic Park." Both endearing and believable, she is the best effect in the film, as you can't tell where the real Amy ends and the robotic Amy begins. Less successful is the miniature satellite and the animated lava, neither of which look even remotely real.

The characters, and John Patrick Shanley's witty dialogue, are the best features of the film, as the plot is all over the place. Its covers too many areas, running out of steam even as the action picks up. The tumultuous finale tries to give us lots of bang for our bucks, but soon feels like film major's graduate school exercise.

You can't help but think that producer Kathleen Kennedy and director Frank Marshall, who have been down this path many times before, were just throwing as much at us as they could. More is not necessarily better. By the end of this film, there is so much happening on the screen you feel like sensory overload has hit you.

Discombobulated is not the same as thrilled.

Still, despite the many flaws, there is something fun about all the excess in this overblown, campy adventure, which almost qualifies as a guilty pleasure.

The Bridges of Madison County just blows away the best-selling hockey novel by Robert James Waller. Clint Eastwood, using remarkable restraint, is sensitive and manly as the photographer who woos an Iowan housewife, played with lots of personality by Meryl Streep. This romance has it all - intelligence, humor, and a lot of warmth. It's a little talky, but sad and sexy enough so that we can overlook it. Rated PG-13.

Fluke, an odd little film about reincarnation and Karma, has a distinctively European flavor that is strangely appealing. What it doesn't have is a target audience, as it tries to please both adults and kids, becoming diluted in the process. Matthew Modine is a dead businessman who comes back as a pup hoping to solve the mystery of his human death. An intriguing ending and nicely stylized visuals save this film from too many pandering, Kodak moments. Rated PG. ** 1/2

Johnny Mnemonic, based on a short story by Mr. Cyberpunk himself, William Gibson, had all the earmarks of a great summer adventure. It never fulfills its promise. Keanu Reeves is robotic in the title role as a courier with a cranial implant used for smuggling information. With the exception of some lively virtual reality scenes, the art direction is reduced to that bleak, retro look common to sci-fi flicks. The best thing about this is the supporting cast, featuring intriguing performances from Dolph Lundgren, Ice-T, Udo Kier, and Henry Rollins. Rated R. **

Mad Love has one thing going for it - its title. After that, it's all downhill. Chris O'Donnell is a nice high school boy who takes a dangerous liking to Drew Barrymore, a manic depressive. O'Donnell emerges from this fairly unscathed, but Barrymore's performance is little more than an annoying twitch. The story is completely unbelievable and the dialogue worse. Rated PG-13. X

Brave Heart has some draggy moments, but we can forgive Mel Gibson his excessive use of slo mo in this otherwise engaging Scottish epic. Based on the actual life and legend of William Wallace, it depicts the 13th century rebel who eventually brought about emancipation from England. At 3 hours and 15 minutes, this is too long, but carefully crafted and exciting. Be forewarned, the battle scenes are VERY gory. Rated R. *** 1/2
